

BASEBALL ARBITRATORS MEET.
They Decide that the Brooklyn Club Is Entitled to Reister.

The following decisions were rendered at the special meeting of the National Board of Arbitration at the National Baseball League, held at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel on Friday afternoon:

In an appeal of the Brooklyn Club for the services of W. H. Keister the board found that he received his written notice of release by the Boston Club on July 10. No notice, however, was sent to the Secretary of the board until three days after the expiration of the ten days prescribed in the constitution and by-laws' contract. When the notice of release was pronounced the Brooklyn Club promptly accepted the services of the player. It was the decision of the board that the Brooklyn Club complied fully with the law governing the acceptance of services of released players and could not be deprived of its rights under the national agreement if the player was awarded to the Brooklyn Club.

In the petition of Peter Cassidy for release from the Newark Club the board found that the evidence did not sustain the claim that the player desired first, because of the non-payment of his salary, and, second, because of his law suit.

The petition of the St. Louis Club for the recovery of $300 from the Rochester Club, for the release of W. V. Doherty, was denied because of the abandonment of the Rochester Club, and the board decided that the player's place was placed on the reserve list of the St. Louis club.

The petition of the Wilkesbarre Club against the St. Louis Club for $750 for the release of Sutter Sullivan was sustained, and the St. Louis Club was ordered to remit that amount to the Wilkesbarre Club.

The application of the New England League for removal of protection from the National Association, concerning the cities of Pawtucket, Newport, New Bedford, Fall River, Worcester, Brockton and Taunton was allowed, provided that the New England League would submit the application for protection of the Union Association will be considered after they have complied with the conditions of organization described in Article VI of the national agreement.

The dispute between the Indianapolis and Youngstown clubs relating to the right to renew their charter was laid over until the annual meeting of the National Board of Arbitration.

$2,000 for Kenmore Queen.

Thirteen head of the racehorses in training, property of Bromley & Co., were auctioned off in the paddock at Morris Park before racing opened yesterday.
